MISCELLANEOUS READING.

PARIS, June 10 -The intensely hot weather of the last ten days has scattered the beau monde of Paris in various directions. Some have sought refuge from the heat, dust, and odors of the capital in their poble chateaux; others exchange the crowds of Paris saloons for the crowds of Baden-Baden, Spa, and the other innumerable resorts with which France and Germany abound. A French femilleton ist gives us an amusing description of the flight of these birds of tashion, and particularly of the pleasure and convenience of travelling with a gay lady. "It is so easy," he tells us, "to travel with a woman, her wants are so few, her requirements so easy, after all, what are they?" he exclaims to the grumbling busband. "Only a dozen trunks to contain her petticoats, her boops, her bouquettes, her morning gowns, her midday robes, her evening toilettes, the cloaks, the mantles, the laces, the guipures, the turs, the riding habits, the hat and plume, the whip; some thirty boxes for her bonnets, her caps, her veils, her ribbons, her flowers; a few cases for the jewels; a few fan-boxes, a dressing box, a work box, a scent box, parasols, chanceliers for the feet, elastic cushions, shawls, plaids, wollen coverings, a few favorite povels, a few amusing journals, the new travelling guide, and the map of the railroad Verily, one could not be more discreet, or less embarrassing or cumbersome." AN INDIAN LOVER.

Miss Bishop, the writer of "Floral Home," came to her dwelling decked in his fineryscarlet flannel, rings, feathers, newly-scoured through an interpreter, announced to her that she must be his wife. It was urged promised that she could have the best corner of the lodge, hunt by his side, and eat with him, while the dark squaw was to bush the papoose, cook the food, carry the game, plant hold an inferior position, declined the distinction. The Indian then begged a dollar to buy a shirt, and left with a haughty air .-Next day he was druck. But Miss Bisbop's associate almost fared worse. She had been only a few weeks in the country, and was ignorant of Indian customs. A young warrior, emitten with her, called often. Hoping to be rid of him, she gave him a ring. He interpreted it as a token of partiality, and returned to take her to his lodge. The next day he again returned, with siz young braves to compel her to go with him. Explanation and interference saved her. GRAND EXCURSION TO PINEY POINT OLD POINT, FORTRESS MONROE, NOR-FOLK, SAND SHOALS, & CAPE HENRY
